

NOTE REGARDING

DIFFERENTIATED REGISTRATION FEES AT TSE

- What are the differentiated registration fees?

As part of the implementation of the « Bienvenue en France » strategy from the 2019-2020 academic year, international students, nationals of countries outside the European Union, are required to pay specific registration fees, which apply instead of the “classic” registration fees, i.e. the total amounts below for one year (tariffs in force for the 2024-2025 academic year).

NB: differentiated registration fees do not apply to TSE’s international Master’s programs. All students admitted into these programs are expected to pay a total of 5,853 €, as detailed below, independently of their nationalities.

Level of study	For reference: national enrollment fees	Differentiated registration fees	Student life and campus contribution (CVEC)*	Total (per year)
Bachelor’s degree	(175 €)	2,850 €	103 €	2,953 €
Master’s degree – standard track	(250 €)	3,879 €		3,982 €
Master’s degree – international track	250 € + 5,500 € additional training fees	Not concerned		5,853 €

*The CVEC must be paid before enrollment, directly to the dedicated institution here.
Exemptions from the CVEC are possible.

- Are all non-EU students necessarily affected by those fees?

No, you can be automatically exempted if you qualify to at least one of the conditions listed on pages 2 and 3. In this case, no request is needed. The exemption will be granted upon presentation of the supporting documents, when compiling your administrative registration file (online or in person).

- If I do not benefit from an automatic exemption, can I request one?

Yes, every year TSE offers fee waivers to several students based on academic excellence. These criteria are detailed on page 4.

If you can show multiple supporting documents demonstrating the criteria, you can ask for a fee exemption to TSE’s Admissions Office.

If you have any questions about differential fees and possible exemptions, please contact TSE's Admissions Office at: admissions@tse-fr.eu.

- I do not benefit from any exemption. May I pay in several installments?

After transmitting your certificate of payment for the CVEC, you will be asked to pay, in order to finalise your enrollment, at least one third of the total requested amount, namely 950 € for an enrollment in a Bachelor's degree, 1,293 € for a Master's degree standard track, and 1,917 € for a Master's degree international track. You will be offered the option of paying in three installments, both online and during an in-person appointment. The payment can only be made by debit card (no credit card). The 2nd and 3rd installments will be debited the following two months.

Requesting an exemption from differentiated tuition fees based on academic excellence

Please find below the criteria which are taken into account:

Bachelor's degree level:

- High marks in the core subjects of the Bachelor's program in relation to the class/cohort average or mainly corresponding to A and B in a letter grading system;
- A C1 level certificate in the French language (CECRL);
- A prize obtained in an academic competition between students in a particular subject area;

Master's degree level:

- High marks in the core subjects of the Bachelor's program in relation to the class/cohort average or mainly corresponding to A and B in a letter grading system;
- A C1 level certificate in the French language (CECRL);
- A C1 level certificate in the English language and/or TOEFL scores higher than 95/120;
- A prize obtained in an academic competition between students in a particular subject area;
- GRE scores in « quantitative reasoning » at a quantile superior to 90%;
- Successful professional experience leading to unanimous recommendations from managers or the creation of a company.

→ A combination of these criteria is needed in order to apply for an exemption – a single criterion will not be sufficient to accept your application. A pedagogical committee will assess all applications received.
